Vail Trip January 4-8, 2012

Six members of the Omaha Ski Club arrived at the Evergreen Lodge on Wednesday evening. We were welcomed by Coco Melin, the sales and marketing manager for Evergreen Lodge. We had drinks and appetizers at the Lodge. We were also joined by Randy from Vail who gave us an overview of the mountain. It was disappointing to find Colorado so dry this time of the year. Vail had an 18 inch base. Only the front side of the mountain was open because of lack of snow. The group decided to check out the snow at Beaver Creek on Thursday.

Thursday, Ben Novograd, Pat Connelly, Cynde McCall, Mark Storz, Teri Hammon and Phil Bintz joined Coco Melin for a tour of Beaver Creek. Some of us had skied there previously, but it was fun to ski with Coco. Bachelor's Gulch had thin snow cover so we cruised the groomed runs on Arrowhead. When we were tired of those runs, we worked our way over to Beaver Creek for lunch at the Spruce Saddle. We were joined by Cynde's sister-in-law Shellie and her son Joey. We had lunch and skied most of the afternoon. We logged over 26,000 feet of vertical that day.

That evening, after a relaxing soak in the hot tub, we had our welcome party in Phil's room. We enjoyed cheese, salami and crackers. We followed this with a light dinner at the bar at Evergreen. It was fun to visit and relax.

Friday, we took the short shuttle ride to Vail. Joey decided to join the group for the day. We started the day with photos taken at the top of the lift by Epic mix. It was a relaxed day. We checked out the Two Elks Lodge and skied the front side of the mountain. We were hoping for a little more snow than we had. We had lunch at Mid Vail and skied a while in the afternoon. Shellie joined us for a run before we called it a day. On the way to the base for Après Ski at Garfinkel's, Joey caught an edge and landed on his wrist. Phil and Teri assessed the situation and felt it was in need of an x-ray for a possible break. Joey was treated to the sled ride down by the Ski Patrol, followed by the emergency room visit at Vail Valley Medical Clinic. While we were waiting we joined the others at Garfinkel's and waited until Joey was treated for his broken wrist.

After the hot tub, we went for dinner at Lancelot's steak house in Vail Village. The prime rib was delicious as was the calamari. It was a nice evening.

Saturday, Teri was very ill with flu symptoms and Joey couldn't ride with his wrist broken. Cynde decided to hang out with Shellie and Joey and Teri simply stayed in bed all day. Pat, Ben, Mark and I skied at Vail again. The snow gods gave us a small amount of fresh powder which made it a bit more tolerable. They really need snow here. We stopped for après ski at Garfinkel's then had dinner at the Lodge.

Sunday we packed up and left for home. That evening the mountain received a few inches of fresh powder. I hope the snowfall picks up for our next trip. Although we didn't have much new snow fall, it was an enjoyable trip. Teri has recovered and Joey is healing. Thanks to all of you for making this a successful trip!
